

GROUP GUIDES: Their Role and Formation

General Norm 41 (b)

“The guide, well formed in the Ignatian process of growth, helps the community to discern the movements at work in the individuals and the community, and helps them to maintain a clear idea of the CLC goal and process. The guide assists the community and its coordinator to find and to use the means needed for the community’s formation and its mission. The guide’s participation in the life of the community is conditioned by the objectivity needed to carry out effectively the role of the guide. The guide is chosen by the community with the approval of the national or regional community.”

Some publications of the World Secretariat which talk about the role of the guide are

- “Towards Christian Life Community Beginnings and Growth” Progressio Supplement 9, 1977
- Survey of the Formation Process in the Christian Life Communities. 1981
- Clarifying Different Roles .... A Supplement to the Survey. 1981

The thoughts and insights expressed in the above works have been implemented in CLC life over these years. Reflecting on these experiences, the Secretariat in 2009 published Progressio Supplement n. 64 “The Process of Growth in CLC: Guidelines for Formation.” This is available on the website, under the heading ‘Resources’ – CLC Documents. This document outlines the four stages of CLC formation

Stage One: First Contact and Reception/Welcome

Stage Two: Laying the Foundations for Vocation

Stage Three: Discernment of Vocation

Stage Four: Apostolic Discernment

The guide’s role - in general and for each stage – is described in numbers 193 – 204.

Formation of the Guide

Once we have a clear idea about the role of the guide, it is easier to plan out the formation required. While there are certain universal guidelines/ orientations, we must remember that formation must be linked to the local, national and regional context.

There are a variety of practices whereby national communities offer formation to group guides. The formation programs may comprise a series of weekends or a series of evening sessions. Alternatively, it could take on the form of an intensive course of several days together. It is also recommended to provide peer group support through occasional meetings among the guides themselves. At these meetings, guides can enrich and support each other through sharing their experiences and helpful practices.

You are urged to read Progressio Supplement n. 33 “Formation of Group Guides: Methodological Orientations”. This document includes

- A. Principles for formation: communicating a spirit – developing some attitudes – transmitting some techniques – integration
- B. Types of formation for Guides: basic formation before becoming a guide – ongoing formation while functioning as a guide – specialized training to deepen some aspect
- C. Areas/Topics for Formation of Group Guides
  - 1. Familiarity with Scripture and Tradition: A good comprehension of Scripture, Christian tradition, Christology, Ecclesiology, Vatican II, etc.
  - 2. The Spiritual Exercises of St. Ignatius: An experience of the Exercises – Reflection on this experience
  - 3. Christian Life Community: The General Principles – History of CLC – application of the Spiritual Exercises to CLC life and formation
  - 4. Human Skills: Human growth – Group dynamics - Listening skills – Intervention skills
  - 5. Awareness of Social Dimension: Gospel values and social reality – social analysis – social teachings of the Church – challenges for the local church
